Tri-Flyer Bulletin No.7.

Accessories.

Front wheel brake.- We've produced a very simple front tyre brake which bolts to the fork assembly on the left hand side. It's not designed to bring you to a rubber burning halt, but is effective for full power tests prior to take off and to slow you down at the end of your landing run.

Exhaust mounting bracket. In order to reduce vibration and hopefully extend exhaust life, we have designed a mounting bracket which can be bolted to the engine mounting plate and rubber mounts. It will be standard on all new trikes since it is an improvement and we are offering it at cost to all existing trike owners. It is easily fitted and we recommend you send for one in order to keep your trike as reliable as possible.

Reserve fuel tank. We have one of our early Tri-Flyers regularly giving its owner around 2 hours per gallon of fuel, but are introducing a one gallon add on reserve fuel tank which clips to the vertical strut above the existing tank. It connects to the fuel level gauge on your main tank and gives you that extra safety and distance.
